

Sue Breland, MSIS, CPM Breland Facilitation

Sue Breland, of Breland Facilitation, is a free-lance consultant and facilitator uniquely adept at integrating the art and science of collaboration. Sue holds the Certified Public Manager designation and a Master of Science in Interdisciplinary Studies degree from Texas State University and is on the faculty of the William P. Hobby Center for Public Service. Sue also holds a BA in Speech and Drama, is a National Endowment for the Arts Fellow, and a local actress & performer.

Over 25 years, Sue has worked in the public, private and nonprofit sectors in organization development, training, business process design, project management and Corporate Social Responsibility - resulting in award winning results. She regularly conducts workshops ranging from technical topics like Research Methods, Performance Management and Program Evaluation to such relationship driven themes as FUNdraising and Volunteer Management. Through the Hobby Center, Sue provides executive education for professional public administrators and has been a presenter at such events as the national American Society for Public Service Conference, the Entrepreneur's Foundation of Central Texas and the V.G. Young Institute of County Government School for County Tax Assessor-Collectors.

Sue has a passion for individual board/staff development and instructional design, making learning opportunities more engaging and impactful. Learning opportunities that encourage participation, reflection, and meaningful transfer to the workplace are her specialty through the training materials she creates and a facilitation style of teaching that brings out the “wisdom already in the room.”

As a meeting facilitator, Sue is effective working with small teams, as well as, large stakeholder groups, line employees, executives and community members. Whether leading clients through project management, problem solving processes or strategic planning, Sue uses a variety of tools and techniques to move groups to their desired outcomes efficiently, with full engagement and fun.

Utilizing her communication skills, Sue partners in website development contributing written content and voice-overs. Additionally, Sue manages multiple social media sites, keeping communities connected, informed and engaged.

Sue is an affiliate and partner with Greenlights for Nonprofit Success, the Alice Dendinger Alliance Group and PivotU. Additionally, Sue is a 2010 graduate of Leadership Austin, an author of Worship For One books & inspiration (www.WorshipForOne.com) and a Breast Cancer conqueror.
